CHÂTEAU DE SIBRA

A PLACE RICH IN HISTORY AND VISIONS

Château de Sibra is an estate in the south-western French department of Ariège, nestled in the foothills of the Pyrenees. Here, almost 150 years ago, the entrepreneur and romantic Joseph Villary de Fajac had the vision of combining the useful with the beautiful. Far away from everyday life and the confinement of its conventions, he created in Sibra a picturesque idyll of touching sensuality, unique quality, and a clear overriding sense of aesthetics.

After years of painstaking restoration of the buildings and the vast park, Château de Sibra has for the past two years once again been a place that one can describe as a small paradise and discover anew again and again with its thousands of beautiful details.

A PLACE — OF CONCENTRATION AND NEW PERSPECTIVES

The idyll created by Joseph Villary de Fajac still encourages its visitors to contemplate, it changes perspectives and sharpens the focus on the essential.

Our modern, well-equipped spaces, meanwhile, are ideally suited for seminars, workshops, and retreats of all kinds with teams of up to 30 people.

Towering over the extensive landscape park, the Château de Sibra with its dépendances is the perfect place to question established approaches and explore new ones.

Here, fresh ideas can be spun and those believed dead can finally be resurrected.

Fantastically versatile location for seminars, workshops and retreats.
