CHÂTEAU DE SIBRA

A PLACE RICH IN HISTORY
AND VISIONS

Oak trees in the park in the morning sun

Château de Sibra is an estate in the south-western French department of Ariège, nestled in the foothills of the Pyrenees. Here, almost 150 years ago, the entrepreneur and romantic Joseph Villary de Fajac had the vision of combining the useful with the beautiful. Far away from everyday life and the confinement of its conventions, he created in Sibra a picturesque idyll of touching sensuality, unique quality, and a clear overriding sense of aesthetics.

After years of painstaking restoration of the buildings and the vast park, Château de Sibra has for the past two years once again been a place that one can describe as a small paradise and discover anew again and again with its thousands of beautiful details. Since recently, Sibra is also available as a location for photo shoots and filming.

A PLACE OF A THOUSAND IMAGES

— THE DIFFERENT LOCATIONS IN SIBRA

The castle, with its lush historic fabric and variety of architectural features, is an invitation to marvel. Modern design elements and timeless furniture classics create a wonderful harmony of different eras.

A harmony that can also be found in the fifteen-hectare park. The historic landscape architecture reflects the same outstanding design quality that is evident in the castle. Between these worlds, countless moods can be created, dreamy worlds fabricated, and distinctive sceneries developed.

All the furniture and accessories, the ro oms with their wallpaper and murals in the castle, the whitewashed spacious flats and the entire park with its trees from all over the world, the grottos and follies may be used for your visions. Although we have known Sibra for 6 years, we discover new, unmistakable, and completely different images every day, such as a faux-bois tree trunk made of concrete, a previously unknown romantic stone bench or a play of light on an embossed wallpaper.
